School budgets, the impossible task

(This is the first of three articles on the 1977-78 publication budgets for the Amador Valley Joint High School and Pleasanton Joint School Districts)

Doug Rose minces few words when referring to the 1977-78 budgets, "It's been the usual impossible task."

Assistant superintendent for business services, Rose is responsible for two budgets that total slightly more than $18.2 million.

The preparation of budgets for public agencies, particularly school districts, is made difficult by the fact that in recent yeas potential sources of revenues have been difficult to come by.

This added to a caustic stance taken by state government has made the job of school business and fiscal personnel a tenacious if not difficult one.

At present, the Amador and Pleasanton district have no new monies available to them for placement in the 1977-78 publication budget. But Rose says AB 65, authored by Leroy Greene, and SB 525, authored by Albert Rodda, should net each district $200,000. Actual funding is not expected until later in the year.

The publication budget figure for Pleasanton is $7,930,305 while Amador's is $10,322,622, but Rose admits the elementary district ledger is much tighter.

The Amador budget is also "different" in that the district ended up with a "fairly good" ending balance, which is listed in the publication ledger at $604,764. Pleasanton's is $512,212.

Rose also notes there are a few items that must be added to the budgets, including an adjustment for insurance and an allotment for the smoke detector system that has gone out to bid.

A gourmet cook when not involved in the labyrinth of income and expense items, Rose notes the presence of a "new feature" in this year's budget.

The page details expenses necessitated by contract negotiations with certificated and classified personnel. "This is a page we wouldn't have even considered having in previous budgets," Rose comments.

Rose says the "up top" expense to carry on negotiations is $8,800 for each district. But this does not include the countless hours and monies needed for making copies of statements, proposals and agreements.

It is the payrolls that constitute the lion's share of budgets, upwards of 85 per cent in the case of public school districts.

In the Amador district, for example, of the $10.3 million budgeted, $5.02 million goes to teacher salaries, $1.2 million to classified pay, and $1.1 million to employe benefits.

The biggest percentage increase is in the area of employee benefits.

Rose notes that the districts must now pay unemployment insurance on certificated. There have been increases in medical and dental benefits as well as a sixtenths of one per cent hike in contribution to employee retirement.

Council leans away from CARD plan

PLEASANTON — The City Council appeared headed toward rejecting the CARD Committee's bid to referend the city's part in the LAVMA sewer pipeline late last night.

The council had not acted as of deadline time, but appeared to be strongly influencd by the advice of City Attorney Ken ScHeidig, who said that the petition was CARD petition was submitted too late.

There was a 30-day limit to referend a city council legislative action and CARD was on time to referend the council's action on May 23 which altered a minor point in the LAVMA agreement. But that was not the point that CARD should have referended, said Scheidig.

The action, which should have been referended, was taken last March and obviously more than 30 days had passed by the time CARD had got its referendum underway.

BULLETIN

The Pleasanton City Council unanimously rejected the CARD plan in a vote held late last night.

The funding covers 87 per cent of the total cost and with it local homeowners can expect a two-dollar per month increase in their sewer 50 dollars per month, said Scheidig.

Councilmembers also were impressed by arguments from Livermore councilmember Dale Turner, who said Livermore and VCSD could sue Pleasanton for damages if it upset the federal subsidies to LAVMA.

CARD speakers emphasized the 2,000 signatures on their petition, the traditional desirability of having people vote on big questions, and what CARD considered the possibility of cheaper alternatives to the $38 million dollar project.

Ray Kidder of CARD felt that the federal government would extend the deadline another year. He personally thought that it would be a waste of energy to pump treated effluents over the Dublin grade. Kidder favors a gravity pipeline that would save maintenance costs and run along Alameda Creek to the East Bay Dischargers Pipeline.

On another item, the council turned down an appeal to allow Tri-Cities Ambulance to operate an ambulance service from a residence at 2297 Tanager Court.

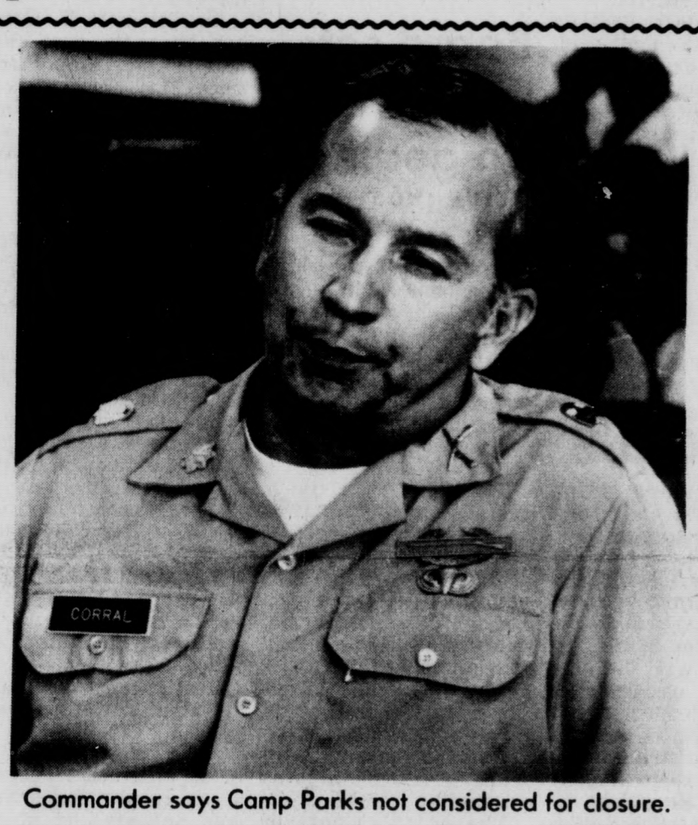
Chowchilla 3 plead guilty to kidnap, still face trial

Lt. Col. Corral oversees million-dollar operation.



Commander says Camp Parks not considered for closure.

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — Three young men accused of the bizarre mass kidnaping of a busload of Chowchilla school children and their driver abruptly pleaded guilty to 27 counts of kidnap for ransom Monday, but said they would stand trial on five more serious charges.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, prosecutors dropped 18 counts of armed robbery covering personal items taken from the young kidnap victims.

The three — Frederick N. Woods, 25; James Schoenfeld, 25, and his brother, Richard Schoenfeld, 24, retained their innocent pleas to five counts of kidnap with bodily harm, a charge that could mean a maximum sentence of life in prison without possibility of parole upon conviction.

The maximum sentence for kidnap for ransom is life in prison, with parole a possibility.

Outside of court, defense attorney Edward Merrill said the defendants had waived their right to a jury trial on the bodily harm issues and the case would be heard before a judge.

"The crux of the matter has always been bodily harm," he said. "There has never been any question about whether or not they were guilty of kidnaping."

The surprise pleas came after hearings on evidence in the case. During the hearings it was revealed that authorities searching the lavish Woods family estate south of San Francisco six days after the kidnap had discovered a $5 million ransom note and a detailed plan for the abduction.

Judge Leo Deegan of Alameda County Superior Court asked each of the defendants Monday if they understood the pleas and if they had discussed the change with their attorneys. Each answered "yes" in hushed tones.

In detailed questioning of each of the young men, Deegan asked Richard Schoenfeld if he and attorney Edward Merrill had discussed a plea of insanity or diminished capacity. "Are you mentally sound?" the judge asked.

What it takes to run Camp Parks

It takes a million dollars a year to run Camp Parks in Pleasanton, even though there are only two full-time military personel on the base.

Most of that money goes for the training National Guard troops, of which 80,000 poured through last year.

Lt. Col. John T. Corral, post commander, employs a civilian force of 37 at Camp Parks, everything from clerks to plumbers.

He says that despite the fact some military installations in the Bay Area are threatened with closure, no one is even considering that for his base.

Corral is charged with maintaining the World War II vintage buildings on the base, and supervising contracts with tenant organizations that use Camp Parks.

It's a good place to work, says one of Corral's civilian employes, who adds; "it seems like it's removed from civilization."

We're living longer

Girls born today can expect to live to age 81, and boys, to almost 72.

Because of a decline in heart diseases, people are living longer, says the Census Bureau.

The median age today is 29, and by the turn of the century, it will approace 37. Unless there is a large-scale war, or epidemic, there will be more over-65 people.

Little fire damage

Minor damage as reported to one building at Camp Parks resulting from a brush fire that consumed 30 acres Saturday afternoon.

Seventeen units from Pleasanton, Livermore and Alameda County fire departments fought the blaze for more than one hour after it was reported at 2 p.m.

Suit over parkway

A lawsuit will be filed soon against the City of Pleasanton in an attempt to force the city to reroute the future segments of the Del Valle Parkway.

Olga Morrow of the Pleasanton Safe Streets Association told The Times yesterday that the group, comprised mainly of residents along the current parkway, will file the suit as soon as the city council's recent rezoning of a nearby property taes effect.

Disaster due here Wednesday

LIVERMORE — Valley Memorial Hospital's disaster plan will swing into action 2 p.m. Wednesday when the Livermore Police Department calls to say, "Two buses just collided and there are many injured."

While hospital personnel prepare for a hypothetical onslought of patients, a medical team will be dispatched to Granada High School's student center where 100 "victims" will be ready to be transferred to VMH and Family Medical Center in San Ramon.

Prior to the mock disaster, Livermore Fire Department personnel will assign "injuries" to participating victims and apply stage makeup and mortician's wax to make the scene more convincing.

Victims will be members of the VMH auxiliary and their children, employes' children, and a Livermore summer school class.

Arrival at the hospital will find patients outside the emergency room, sorted and forwarded to proper treatment stations.

The semiannual disaster drill, required by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, tests ability of the hospital and other agencies to cope with a real occurrence, according to Edward J. Colonna, VMH chief engineer and chairman of the disaster committee.

A critique will follow the drill to uncover weak points and start preparations for future drills to enable quick VMH response to medical needs of victims in event of a real disaster.

Joy and relief over Chowchilla verdict

CHOWCHILLA — The people of this simple farming town greeted news that three young men had pleaded guilty Monday to the kidnap of 26 of its children like the long-awaited end of a horror movie.

They called it a happy ending.

"I'm covered with goosebumps," said Joan Brown, whose son, Jeff, 11, and daughter, Jennifer, 10, were among the busload of school children whose bus was hijacked at gunpoint July 15, 1976.

Mrs. Brown said Jeff shouted, "Can we celebrate tonight?"

The children and their driver were held captive in an underground tomb about 100 miles north of here near Livermore for nearly 18 hours before burrowing to freedom. Frederick N. Woods, 25, James Schoenfeld, 25, and his brother, Richard, 24, all had been charged in the mass abduction.

Word of the dramatic reversal raced through the community as parents telephoned each other with the good news heard first on a radio broadcast.

"It's just a relief for me," said Carol Marshall, whose 15- year-old son Mike was among the victims. "Now we can really forget it."

Evelyn Reynolds, mother of two kidnap victims, Judy, 14, and Rebecca, 10, called it "great. I feel better just in the last 10 minutes, just knowing it's over with. I'm just relieved."

Some of those involved were in the Alameda County courtroom to see the guilty pleas entered firsthand.

Leroy Tatum, superintendent of the Dairyland School where the children were enrolled for summer school on the kidnap day, was among the Chowchilla residents at the hearing. He said he came to this hearing only because summer school ended Friday.

"I sat there and I watched all three of them and each time one of them said 'guilty' it was just a real good feeling," Tatum said.

Ed Ray, the burly bus driver who had suffered through the hijacking with the children, also was in court. He said he was surprised by the action.

"Yeah," he said, "it was kind of surprising, but I'm really happy ... I still think about it but not as much as I used to. For a long time that's all I thought about."

However, the court action didn't satisfy everybody in Chowchilla. Some parents worried aloud that the defendants might just get "a slap on the wrist" instead of a stiff sentence. And everybody still wants an answer to the nagging question of "why?"

"We may never know what motivated them," said Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates. "I don't know if they know themselves."

Baby fine, mother won't face charge

PLEASANTON — A three day old boy found in a city park Saturday remains in excellent condition in Valley Memorial Hospital and police said that the mother, described as a "very young juvenile", would not be charged with abandonment.

Police said the baby, now in the custody of the Alameda County Probation Department's children's unit, probably would be considered for adoption because of the mother's age.

The unnamed infant, born early Saturday morning, was found wrapped in a blanket at 3:30 p.m. that day by two young girls in Valley Trails Park.

Probation Department Officer Frances Parker said the infant was healthy and showed no sign of abuse when found. She said the child probably would be placed in an emergency foster home prior to adoption.

The Lab is stalling, he says

Scientist with three grievances on file, talks of a lawsuit

Philippe Lehot

LIVERMORE — Philippe Lehot, a computer scientist at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, has accused Lab personnel officials of dragging their feet in dealing with three grievances he has filed.

Lehot, 36, has worked for LLL since Aug. 9, but he has accused his supervisors of discriminating in employment both before and since his starting date. He also claims they have placed "defamatory" material about him in a personnel file Lehot says he is prevented from inspecting.

Even after he filed his first grievance March 16, the computer specialist complained his requests to save various personnel records were ignored by officials who "destroyed all the evidence" in a shredding machine while he looked on.

Much of his ire is directed at Robert M. Lee, his supervisor. Lehot was apparently invited by a manager in the laser beam study division for a talk about possible reassignment to that section of LLL, but the employe complained Lee "went around my back and told them not to hire me because I was technically incapable of doing the job."

Lehot told The Times he has three PhD's."

Many procedural delays concerned Lehot that a University of California grievance procedure requiring a 90 day limit from date of grievance filing to a hearing and decision would not be met.

He filed a second grievance about the delays on June 1; the Lab two days later formed a grievance committee, he said, to schedule a hearing.

Feeling the committee would ignore his second grievance, Lehot filed a third one June 15 and is now contemplating a court suit to get things off dead center.

LLL spokesman Jeff Garberson said the Lab could not make an official comment on the case.

Lehot also had misunderstandings with the committee which wants the same California State Employe's Association attorney, Tom Sinclair, to handle Lehot's three grievances.

"He was a witness in my first grievance and I want a separate lawyer for the other two," said Lehot. The grievance committee reportedly has set a hearing date in late August, but Lehot said "I can't wait any longer."

The 90 day period would have ended June 16.

Army in the community

Million dollar military post

Only two full-time active duty Army personnel man Camp Parks near Pleasanton, yet the post operates on a budget of nearly a million dollars.

This year the Pentagon appropriated Camp Parks a working budget estimated at $965,000 and still considers it an inactive installation which is primarily used for training Army Reserves in the summer.

Some 81,000 troops trained there last year for Reserve and National Guard duty. This figure includes those who trained only on weekends.

Camp Parks' cut of this year's defense budget is $217,000 over last year's in addition to some $241,000 the Army pulls in as reimbursements for services to tenant organizations.

Army records show the reimbursements are for sewage, water and electrical services rendered.

According to the Presidio — Camp Parks' mother installation in San Francisco — local organizations such as school districts, Livermore Area Recreation and Parks District (LARPD), and the Valley Community Services District (VCSD), all lease land from the Army for a sum total of $19,000.

An Army spokesman said yesterday that negotiations between VCSD directors and Col. John D. Hamilton, Sr. commanding officer of the Presidio, have been on an "even keel" the past week regarding 300,000 gallons per day of sewage capacity and some 125 acres of land at Camp Parks.

The Army is seeking contingency rights to use the entire sewage capacity of 300,000 gallons per day in case a national crisis bugles the return of troops to the fort.

Lt. Col. John T. Corral has been the post commander at Camp Parks since May. His job is to maintain the buildings and insure that contracts and stipulations with the tenant organizations are carried out.

Lt. Col. Corral and his sidekick — a Sergeant First Class — have 37 civilian employees to aid in their work including an administrative staff, some engineers, a dozen firemen, two plumbers, and some electricians and carpenters.

Recently, the Federal Government has been conducting a study on closing some bases in the area.

"Even though Presidio and Fort Baker are under study," Corral said, "we don't anticipate closing either one. Camp Parks is not even being considered."

Viewing the military significance of Camp Parks, Corral pointed out some of the highlights at his facility.

"It's an open post," he said, "with Federal regulations authorizing search and seizure and posted speed limits."

Corral said the U.S. Coast Guard has leased the pistol range at Camp Parks having trained as many as 80 troops in one week.

The 124th Army Command Maintenance Shop is also located at the post. Ron Weiand, shop supervisor, said that he and 23 other civilians carry out Reserve support activities in the geographical area east of the Bay to Reno, Nev.

"I like working at Camp Parks," Weiand said. "There's a lot of wildlife out there — it seems like it's removed from civilization."

Of all the old barracks that were built for World War II, Lt. Col. Corral said that ⅞ of them have been holding up "pretty good," while ⅛ of them are "deteriorating."

The post's fire captain, Tom Bailey said that a building hasn't burned in the last five years. He also said, however, that the 30 acre blaze that happened last Saturday did cause "minor structural damage to one of the buildings."

There'll be more elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today's girl babies can expect to live to 81 and boys to almost 72, nearly three years longer than expected before, because fewer people are dying of heart attacks, the Census Bureau says.

In a report released Monday on population projections of the United States, the Census Bureau said the death rate of adults over 35 declined much more rapidly between 1973 and 1975 than it did all during the previous decade.

The decline was due largely to a reduction in deaths from major cardiovascular diseases, such as heart attacks, the report says.

Asked if this was a result of improved medical techniques and lower cholesterol diets, Signe Wetrogan, a demographer who worked on the report, said, "We just don't know. We don't know much about the mortality decrease of the last few years."

The median age of the population has increased from 27.9 in 1970 to 29 in 1976, the figures show. The report projects that by the turn of the century, the median age will range from 32.5 to 37.3. The median age means that half the people in the country are older than that and half are younger.

The report said unless there is a large-scale war, major epidemic or other catastrophe, the over-65 population will grow from an estimated 22.9 milion in 1976, which was 11 per cent of the population, to 31.8 million in the year 2000, about 12 per cent of the population.

However, a major jump in the elderly population is predicted in 2030 when the combination of declining mortaliy and the aging of the post-World War II baby boom generation will swell the elderly population to 55 million. That means that anywhere from 14 to 22 per cent of the nation's population would be over 65, a situation that would have a major impact on social and economic institutions.

Social scientists say that as a result of this growing proportion of elderly persons, the country will have to consider changes in its pension, medical care and educational systems, as well as make decisions that will affect the quality of life the elderly will enjoy.

Demographers have a hard time predicting the future population because they can't be sure women will have the approximately two children each most now say they want.

For this reason, the estimated population in the year 2000 is slightly less than demographers predicted two years ago.

Rogers joins Amador schools

Dick Rogers, most recently coordinator of data processing services in the Alameda County Schools office, is the new director of fiscal services with the Amador-Pleasanton School Districts.

He replaces Virginia Gorski, who went to work last Thursday as controller for the San Mateo City School District. Mrs. Gorski had come to Pleasanton from the Benicia School District to replace Robyn Thompson.

In his new position, the 40-year old Rogers will work with Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business services.

Rose says Rogers has considerable knowledge of the local district budgets as he helped develop all the codes used by Pleasanton and Amador while he was with the county.

Rogers is now doing budget analysis and review on the 1977-78 ledgers.

Rogers will also have a key role as the districts switch over from an internal payroll system to the county system. In fact, the districts will be the "showcase" agencies after two terminals and a printer are installed in the business offices at district headquarters in approximately two weeks. He will be responsible for training office staff to use the new equipment, which will be hooked up directly to the county.

Prior to his four years with Alameda County Schools, Rogers was project coordinator for Contra Costa County Schools in data processing.

Rogers, who grew up in the midwest, began his new duties last week.

SERVING & SERVICING THE BAY AREA FOR OVER 38 YEARS

"Stay away from this ride" could very well be the warning for the weak a heart. Marriott's new Tidal Wave is a definite thriller, catapulting riders into a loop at 55 mph.

"The Tidal Wave"

Some new summer thrills

There's certainly a variety of things to visit in the area for summer — but kids just don't seem to be satisfied anymore, unless, somewhere along the line, mom and dad include Marriott's Great America.

Certainly enough words have been written about this place to choke Bugs Bunny. But the newest selling point, just finished this month, is bound to have the youngsters screaming for a return visit: the Tidal Wave.

This ride is, undoubtably, the meanest thing to come along since Space Mountain hit Disneyland. In the lingo of hip teenagers, it's "ba-aaa-ad."

I, a stalwart soul, had to gasp while watching the rocketing cars screaming skyward into one heck of an ascent, at the speed of 55 mph. Crowds line up as though waiting for some kind of free handout, stretching into oblivion (actually, the wait is about one half hour). Once inside the park, there is simply no way to avoid it — you must try it out.

And a great ride it is. The sound and sight alone is enough to make hopeful riders dizzy, but inside the seats (and we happened to get the first car — a double curse) it's a whole new world.

Marriott's, it seems, designed this ride to accelerate to top speed in five seconds — and that part of the Tidal Wave is, literally, the most breathtaking. The 28 riders are then catapulted through a 76-foot tall loop. And this is where I lost any perception of time and space, or of which direction I was going — it was a windy, speedy experience that continued on, with a skyward run up a 140-foot ramp. The sight of the speeding track, and the feel of facing straight up toward the sky, just isn't enough. Because then, the whole scene drops right out from under everyone, when they are put through the Tidal Wave backwards.

All this perverse fun, by the way, lasts a short 23 seconds. But it does bring people into the place (masses, from what I saw). And, of course, there are lots of Great America rides and attractions, including several shows.

One of these, called "Broadway," is an interesting, if incredibly long, bit of music and dance, starring what must be the most all-American faces I've ever seen. The most noticable thing about this show, however, was the glaring lack of blacks in either the cast or the orchestra, despite the fact that they did portions from the all-black show, "The Wiz" (they avoided "Porgy and Bess").

Really, though, the park is great for a day's outing with the kids. The price may keep some families away $8.95 for adults and $7.95 for kids, which includes all rides. It's open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. through the summer.

And, if you're out in the Marriott area, take a little side trip or two — there's loads of interesting things to see.

For instance, Villa Montalvo, a magnificent Spanish-style mansion and grounds, the former summer home of Senator Phelan, is a fine place for hiking, picnicking, whatever. The grounds have been transformed into a large park containing hiking paths, rare bushes and flowers, trees and an arboretum. An art gallery is now located within the splendid house, open daily except Monday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The grounds, located on SaratogaLos Gatos Rd., Saratoga, are open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Or visit the Paul Masson Winery, 13150 Saratoga Ave., Saratoga., to see what the operations of a huge wine-producing facility is like. This is definitely the big-time when it comes to wineries, featuring an assembly plant, row upon row of gigantic casks, and literally five million or so bottles of champagne. The tour and movie about Paul Masson takes about 45-minutes, followed (of course) by wine tasting, all free.

Mission Santa Clara is another good trip to take, while taking in the grounds of the University of Santa Clara. Complete tours are available of the campus observatory, the deSaisset Art Gallery, and the mission when school is in session. The mission and university are located on Franklin and the Alameda in Santa Clara. Take Highway 17, and the Alameda exit. — by Carla Marinucci

RISKING ONE'S LIFE FOR THE FUN OF IT

Millions of fun-seekers each year flock to amusement parks to ride on machines contrived to "amuse" by placing the riders in unfamiliar positions to be whirled, joggled, juggled and jiggled into submission, all at high speed.

Why do these apparently normal citizens allow themselves, even seek, to be tortured in this way? Are they punishing themselves for some secret misdeeds out of their dark and mysterious past?

Or perhaps the human animal needs to rev up the adrenalin once in awhile to remind us of our primordial past, when life was tenuous and short at the most.

Although I have tried, I will never forget the time my daughter talked me into going on the innocent looking ride at the Fair called "Granny's Little Trip." It proved to be a trip very close to the promised land. And Granny was no where in sight. Do you think she'd risk her life ?

When I stepped innocently into the compart ment of Granny's Little Trip, I noticed that Granny hadn't provided very good seatbelts. In fact, none. There was a hinged pipe that crossed our laps. That was all.

The ride started up at rather low speed, around a track that undulated in large waves. This was not too bad, I thought. We can live through this. But seconds later, I thought we would not live through it, as we were hurled around at enormous speed, and the pipe which was supposed to hold us rose away from us, and was useless. At that time, with my brain receiving all kinds of hair-raising signals, I realized that I was screaming uncontrollably. Well, why be shy when you are being killed?

I thought it would never end. When it did, I staggered to my feet with great difficulty, and somehow managed to get out of there. I was a broken woman. Two of my finger nails were broken from trying in vain to stay in the seat by grasping at the inadequate railing, but worst of all, my spirit was broken.

Machine against human, and machine had won. This was a changing point in my life. I walked around the carnival grounds as in a dream, separated from the other people by my knowledge of the deadly nature of the place.

How can they laugh and be so carefree? How can they be so unknowing? I could barely eat my cotton candy, I was so stunned by the experience. Through my chocolate coated frozen banana, I contemplated the condition of mankind, and the traps of life, what an ironic twist life had taken when I came to this place of apparent "amusement."

The screams of anguish and horror still rung in my ears as I wound down from the ordeal with a few games of chance, tossing dimes into dishes that were not worth a dime, even if you could ring them, which one could not, because of some unalterable law of physics known only to Stanford University professors, and carnival concessionaires.

And as I walked around the commercial exhibits, watching demonstrations of the routing of names in redwood planks, I was a little restored. My name carved in redwood, that ageless wood, had a permanence about it that seemed to signify that I would be around for awhile, after my narrow brush with death.

And then suddenly I understood it all. I saw why people came to these parks and fairs and carnivals, and risked their lives. I had not thought deeply enough about the subject. I felt ashamed that I hadn't given humankind enough credit for knowing what it was doing.

Yes, there is a reason for it all. The life and death struggle, lived out here, under the guise of laughter and fun, was a necessary part of existence. Without risk, there is no meaning. I stumbled to the car, chastened by the realization of my naivete, but glad to be alive.

District 57 drops 8-7 game

NEWARK — Mark Silva and Kevin Jones have been playing around second base together so long they look like first cousins on the diamond as well as off.

But last night at Memorial High School, a defensive mixup by the two relatives led to a Central Coast run in the bottom of the seventh and an 8-7 loss for the District 57 American Big League All-Stars.

The teams went into the last of the seventh tied at 7-7. With one out, District 57 pitcher Chuck Cary walked Dan Kakeldey.

Moments later, the slim left-hander picked Kakelby off first base, but the Central Coast catcher headed for second and when first-baseman Mark Smith threw to the bag, neither shortstop Jones or second-baseman Silva were tp be found.

Their rare lapse set up Larry LeSeck's line drive single to right that gave Central Coast — which represents Districts 12, 39, and 44 — a first round victory in the Sectional All-Star tournament.

District 57 will play its second game if the double-elimination tourney on the same field at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

District 57 took the lead, 2-0, in the top of the first on singles by Jones, Mike Cockerton and Chuck Cary. Central Coast, however, came right back to take over the lead in the bottom portion of the inning.G Leadoff batter Bob Elmendorf and Ron Lopes walked, setting the stage for a two-run triple by Kakelby. Kakelby then scored on a sacrifice fly to center by LaSeck.

The Americans scored three more times in the second inning on hits by Eric Austad, Silva, Bret Cary and Jones. But after that, CEntral Coast starter Brian Funk retired ten batters in a row, six via strikeouts.

Cary, meanwhile, did not allow another hit until the fourth. In that frame, LaSeck led off with a single and two more one-baggers, by George Ralston and Funk, accounted for two more runs, enabling CC to tie it at 5-5.

District 57 scored once more in the fifth, when Cary singled and advanced on a bunch of errors, and in the sixth on hits by Steve Jayko and Kevin Kragen.

Central Coast tied the contest and set up the climactic inning when Ralston and Chris Metzger singled and were moved around by a pair of District 57 errors and a single to right by Elmendorf.

Other first round games will be played today and after tomorrow's games, the survivors will meet Saturday at 1 p.m. for the right to advance to the Regional tournament in Sacramento next week.

Ali throws $12 million at Norton-Young winner

NEW YORK — Twelve million dollars is Muhammad Ali's asking price for a fight against the winner of the Ken Norton-Jimmy Young bout, the heavyweight champion said Monday, treating his defense against Earnie Shavers Sept. 29 as a fait accompli.

"I've already beaten them both," Ali said, looking ahead to Norton and Young. "I can't add to my greatness as a fighter.

"The winner of that fight will make at least $2 million to fight me," said Ali. "If they don't fight me, they won't make $2 million the rest of their lives."

Ali, dressed in what has become something of an out - of - ring uniform for him, black slacks and black shirt, was talking quietly. The room was free of cameras and microphones. The formal news conference for the Ali-Shavers fight in Madison Square Garden was still 15 minutes away.

"I have no reason to take a risky fight if they don't pay me right," Ali said. Then, looking at someone nearby, he added, "I'll fight as long as I can get $5 million fighting guys like you. I can fight three more years fighting Evangelistas."

The champion's last fight was a dull effort against Alfredo Evangelista of Spain May 16.

He admitted he didn't look good in that fight, but explained, "After all of my bad fights, my next fight is great."

Then it was showtime.

Shavers, a big puncher with either hand, stood up and told the small-for-Ali news conference crowd that he was thankful to the Garden and Ali for the chance at the championship.

Ali followed, a plate of food in his hand.

"I'm overexposed, so I don't want to do no talking," he said. Laughter.

"So you all want to ask some questions ... while I eat." Then a glance at the food and the comment, "Kosher." Laughter.

The next five minutes were extremely noisy, with Ali talking and chomping food at the same time. Finally he settled down to a menu of Ali-isms.

— "I am the resurrector and savior of the fight game. If you (Shavers) win the title, it will die."

— "You're meetin' the master, kid. I am the master."

— On New York: "If you die on the street, they'll walk by you. I can't stand on the corner (without drawing a crowd)."

Oakland centerfield Tony Armas makes leaping catch in 2-1 loss yesterday.

Dublin Valley wins

NEWARK — Dublin Valley's Senior League All-Star team played come - from - behind baseball once again Sunday, scoring two runs in the bottom of the ninth to top Newark National, 12-11, and win the District 57 Senior All-Star championship held at Memorial High School.

The winners advanced to the Section Three tournament yesterday, where they lost to District 12 champion Branham Hills in a first-round contest at John Muir High School in San Jose.

But Sunday's win was a culmination of comeback efforts the team has put together all-week, and marked their fifth win in four days after losing their tournament opener to Livermore National.

The winners took advantage of three walks and one base hit to score two runs it needed to pull out the hard - fourght victory in the bottom of the ninth.

Dave Hampton led off the ninth - inning rally with a base hit, after Newark shortstop Jay Dore robbed leadoff batter Doug Anderson on a fine catch in short left field.

Newark pitcher David Huer then wild pitched pinch - runner Cam Whitty and Morgan to second and third base, and Matt Carrere walked to load the bags.

Mark Jennings walked in the tying run and Jim Grant the winning run to give DV the 12-11 verdict.

Dublin hurler Arthur Bayless threw all nine innings in an iron-man performance. He walked seven, struck out seven, and gave up 13 hits.

Jennings, Hampton, Morgan and Mark Busdon each hit triples in the fourth inning as DV scored five runs to take a 9-5 lead.

Newark came back to tie the game at 10-10 by scoring three runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh.

Jay Dore's run-scoring triple accounted for one of the Newark tallies, while Dave Huer squeeze - bunted him home for the next run.

The losers had an 11-10 lead in the ninth before letting it slip away.

Dublin Valley would have ended the game sooner had not Newark left-fielder Sam Madrall, who hit a two-run double in the sixth inning, thrown out Grant at the plate.

Twins edge A's, 2-1

BLOOMINGTON — Larry Hisle's 11th-inning single scored Rod Carew with the winning run, giving the Minnesota Twins a 2-1 victory over the Oakland A's Monday behind the brilliant pitching of Dave Goltz.

Goltz, 12-6, went all the way and allowed just eight hits, striking out 14 and walking only one. The burly righthander struck out the side in the second inning and fanned at least one A's hitter in every inning but the fourth.

Carew and Lyman Bostock started the 11th inning with singles and Glenn Adams was walked intentionally by loser Rick Langford, who allowed the Twins just seven hits. Hisle's single through the A's drawn-in infield barely eluded shortstop Rob Picciolo.

Langford, 7-11, struck out eight and walked five.

The Twins, who have won four straight games and seven of their last eight, had threatened to chase Langford in the first, but the A's rookie righthander fanned Adams and Hisle to get out of a bases-loaded jam.

Goltz, who threw 176 pitches enroute to his 11th complete game of the season, never faced more than four batters in any inning other than the fifth when the A's sent five hitters during the plate and scored their lone run.

The 6 - foot - 2, 210-pound Goltz, who has never won more than 14 games in one season during his five-year career, fanned Oakland's Wayne Gross and Rich McKinney three times.

Nor-Cal tourney

Livermore cops first

SONOMA — Livermore Babe Ruth's 15-year old All-Star team got off to a good start in the Northern California State Babe Ruth All-Star tournament with a resounding 18-5 win over host team Sonoma Valley Saturday night.

The winners scored seven runs in the fifth inning to break open the error - marred contest.

Livermore faced Elk Grove in a second round contest Sunday night.

Singles by Terry Jacob, Pat Fallon and Terry Tennyson, an error and a balk gave Livermore two runs in the first inning. Sonoma came back to tie it in the top of the second, as Livermore starter Jack Trudeau surrendered four straight walks.

Carl Dice stroked an RBI single in the bottom half of the second inning to spark a three-run rally and give Livermore a 5-2 lead.

Sonoma came back to tie the game at 5-5 again in the fourth, but an infield hit by Jeff Hoffman in the bottom of the fourth scored a run and put Livermore ahead for good, 6-5.

Greg Sundahl roped a two-run single while Tennyson, Jacob and Trudeau each slapped run-scoring singles and Dice added an RBI groundout to combine with a myriad of Sonoma turnovers in scoring seven runs in the fifth to break out to a 13-5 lead.

The winners scored their final five runs in the sixth inning, with a sacrifice fly by Tennyson and a two-run doubled by Trudeau the big hits. Fallon led all Livermore hitters with three singles, while Chris Bailey topped the Sonoma crew with a two-run single.

Cubs back on trail

After going winless in their first seven California Baseball Association encounters, the Tri-Valley Cubs have hit the winning trail.

The Cubs have swept a pair of doubleheaders in one week and have improved their CBA record to 2-7, while raising their overall mark over the .500 plateau with a 16-15-1 ledger.

Sunday, the Cubs took both ends of a twin-bill over the San Francisco Spiders at the Dublin Sports Grounds, one by forfeit and the other 3-2.

The previous Sunday, Tri-Valley washed away Galu Realty of San Francisco, 4-0 and 13-1, with John Prieto and Scott Ellis combining on a two-hitter in the first game while scoring seven first-inning runs enroute to the second game rout.

Against the Spiders yesterday, the Cubs scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth to take a hair-raising win.

Jim Florence's bases-clearing triple was the key blow, while Stan Wolfe singled, Prieto was hit by a pitch and Mike Cary walked to set up the game-winner.

The Spiders scored both of their runs in the eighth inning as a fielding error, combined with three walks and two hit batsmen opened the door before reliever Bob Chapman struck out the side and pitched the ninth to pick up the win.

The Cubs play their next league game against the Oakland Expos at San Francisco's Big Rec Park Sunday at 2:00, followed by a three-week home series of Sunday doubleheaders at the Dublin Sports Grounds, each beginning at 11:00.

Johnson starts for All-stars

BUFFALO — San Jose Sunbird pitcher Bonnie Johnson will be starting on the mound in the Womens Professional Softball League All-Star game here tonight.

This is the second year in a row for Johnson, and she is almost as happy about the honor as she is her new job as head softball coach at UC Berkeley.

But Sunday night, even those two challenges failed to cheer her up. Johnson sat in the locker room at Municipal Stadium in San Jose with downcast eyes and hunched shoulders.

She had just been pulled from the final game of a six-game series with the Bakersfield Aggies. The yank, which came in the fifth inning, after eight runs were scored by the Aggies, with only the second time this year that she has not completed a game.

Johnson has finished 16 of 18 starts this year, and last season had a perfect record of 32 for 32.

"It's really a hard thing, staying out there when the fans aren't with you. But what it's all about is this. It takes more guts to lose. Winning is easy," she said.

Winning is not something that the Sunbirds did well this weekend. They were two for four in the series with the last place Aggies. San Jose held on to a narrow half-game first-place lead over Connecticut, nevertheless.

"This series has been like having the flu," complained Sunbirds manager Gary Cunningham. "We have to shake the bug. I told them to just get away from softball for three days. The stretch drive will be back East."

Johnson agreed with Cunningham that what the team is fired up for is the upcoming series with the Connecticut Falcons.

Sunbird catcher Maribeth Carlson slipped into the room to lend some moral support to the unhappy Johnson.

"She's my pitcher, you know," Carlson warned, waving a taped-up finger.

Carlson is exactly that according to Cunningham, who was named Head Coach for the All-Star West team.

Carlson has been named the starting catcher in tonight's game, along with Johnson.

The three pitchers at three innings apiece will be Bonnie Johnson, Rhonda Ebersole (SJ) and Pat Whitman (Bakersfield). The batting order will be Diane Kalliam, SJ, CF; Teri Mariani, SJ, SS; Vicki Schneider, Santa Ana, 3B; Margaret Redenar, Bakersfield, DH; Linda McMoran, SA, LF; Sue Lindh, SJ, RF; Maribeth Carlson, SJ, C; Rosie Adams, SA, 2B; Debbie Allen, SA, 1B; Mary Reichert, Bakersfield, (sub).

Gaels, Dons take wins

Pleasanton and Dublin survived first round action in the Pleasanton Recreation Allied Brokers Summer Basketball League playoffs last night at Amador Valley High School to advance into tonight's winner's bracket.

The Dons toppled Pleasanton/Foothill, 52-42, and Dublin stunned second-place finisher Livermore, 56-52 in overtime.

Hayward rolled over Walnut Creek, 60-35, in another contest. San Ramon and round-robin champion Fremont tangled in a late tilt.

Tonight, Dublin plays Hayward and Pleasanton meets the winner of the SR-Fremont contest.

Jeff Megathen was the hero for Dublin in the upset victory. He sank the first basket in overtime to give the Gaels a 54-52 advantage, and then fed Jeff Barnes for the clincher with a minute left in the contest.

Barnes' bucket came after Livermore's Mike May, who had 18 points on the evening, missed two charity shots.

Jim Rogers sank one of two free throws with four seconds left for Livermore to send the game into overtime.

Megathen grabbed five rebounds in the overtime and completely dominated the boards in the second halfj continually getting a second sHot at the basket.

Jeff also led Dublin's scoring with 13 points. Dan Pearson, who played a brilliant all-around game, added 12.

Brian Schweiger had 13 points to share high-game scoring honors woth Megathen, but the Cowboys lacked the balanced attack.

Terrence Lee led Hayward's win with ten points. Chuck Gonzales added eigHt. John Deignan fired in 20 points for Walnut Creek, all on field goals.

Pleasanton got off to a ragged start against the improved Falcons, trailing 11-9 at the first quarter break, and 17-12 with 5:10 left in the second period.

However, the Dons began to assert themselves on the boards and started hitting their outside jumpers in the second quarter. Pleasanton pulled ahead for the first time since the opening minutes of the contest when Craig Kagen hit a driving lay-up to make the score 24-23 with 2:15 left in the quarter.

Both teams traded baskets the rest of the period, with the Dons taking a 29-27 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

Pleasanton/Foothill's only moment of glory in the second half came when Rick Rosenbach hit a ten-foot jumper with 2:29 left to close the gap to 35-33 in favor of the Dons.

Rosenbach ended the brief scoring drought for the Falcons, hitting a short jumper with six minutes left in the final period.

Wilson may quit Chiefs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jerrel Wilson has decided his adoptive parents mean more to him than the football career and the life he has built in Kansas City.

Now the Kansas City Chiefs and Houston Oilers must decide how much Wilson is worth to them.

If they cannot agree, and if Wilson's desperately ill parents in Texas worsen, he is prepared to quit football to be with them.

One of the best punters in professional football the past 14 years, Wilson has asked the Chiefs to trade him to Houston, which is only 70 miles south of his parents' 240-acre farm near Huntsville, Tex.

"You see, I am very close to my parents," Wilson says. "For 20 years they gave me the most wonderful life I could have ever hoped to imagine. They weren't rich by any means, but they always made sure I got to practice, had football shoes and I had everything I wanted."

The Chiefs have not given up hope that Wilson, three times a National Football League punting champion, will remain.

"As it stands now," a Chiefs' spokesman said Monday, "We do not expect a trade. And we are planning on Jerrel being with the us.

"But the question is not so much whether he will play here or in Houston, but whether he will be able to play anywhere."

Nan Wilson, 59, underwent cancer surgery last February and her condition has deteriorated. Douglas Wilson, 63, suffered a heart attack a few days after his wife's surgery.

"...They are so close to each other that I'm afraid that if one of them goes the other will follow..." Wilson said, his voice cracking, "They are not old people, but very sick."

Wilson is an only child.

"...When I was 10 years old I found out one day that I was adopted," Wilson recalled. "I was very upset and when I went to them and asked them about it they explained it to me very well.

"They told me, 'Yes, you are adopted, but we picked you out specifically from a bunch.' I was the one they chose.

"I owe them everything. If one of them goes, then I'm gone (to Texas). There comes a time when you have to consider what's most important to you."

While Wilson agonizes through the Chiefs' training camp, club officials await a return call from the Oilers.

"We just can't give him away," said Chiefs Coach Paul Wiggin, a sensitive man in an unenviable position. "We've talked to Bum Phillips (Houston coach) and they are very interested, but haven't come up with what we feel is a fair exchange. Jerrell was very valuable to us last year ... he could also be very valuable to Houston."

Quarterback Dan Pastorini punted for the Oilers last season, averaging 36.7 yards per kick. Wilson, a talented specialist and an integral part of the Chiefs' plans, has a remarkable career average of 43.9.

"We're not saying Jerrel could kick them right into the Super Bowl," said a Chiefs' spokesman. "but it seems obvious he could really help them."

Martin on death row

NEW YORK (AP) — Battling Billy Martin has survived, for the time being, another crisis. He is still the New York Yankees manager, but he says, "Now I know how it feels to be on death row."

Martin met with Yankees President Gabe Paul Sunday before New York's game with the Kansas City Royals, and the fiery manager returned to say the only job he ever wanted was still his.

That job, however, hangs by a thread.

"Everything's all right," Martin told a handful of reporters standing vigil in his office. "Nothing's changed." But no sooner had the words come out of his mouth, when the phone rang. "Wait a minute," he said.

It was gallows humor, highly appropriate because Martin found himself fired in several newspaper reports Saturday. The job, according to one of those stories, was offered to Yankees third base coach Dick Howser.

"No job has ever been offered to me," Howser said Sunday. "I've been under consideration, but none offered me a job."

Howser said he couldn't say whether he would accept the Yankee field boss job, if it were offered. But he said he wouldn't ask Martin's advice.

"I wouldn't talk to Billy. I would have to make that decision myself."

Martin said he hadn't talked with Howser. "I think all of my coaches are standing behind me," he said. "I love 'em for their loyalty."

Martin was asked if he believed there was some fact behind the rumors that had him being fired from his fourth managerial position. "I've got to believe there's something to these rumors," he said.

Martin had been talking to reporters before Paul called and asked him to come upstairs to the Yankee offices. "I should find out now," he said.

When he returned to his office, Martin's mood was more buoyant. "Gabe told me to keep managing the way I've been managing," he said.

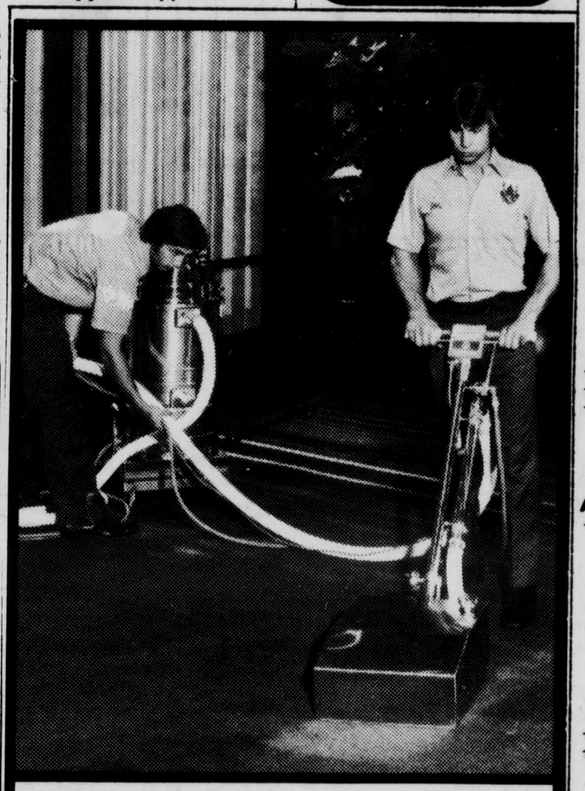
Martin felt the latest flurry of firing stories were provoked by the Yankee's gruesome loss to Milwaukee in the second game of Friday night's doubleheader. They blew a 4-0 lead in the ninth inning, losing the game in the 10th 5-4.

"I'm just guessing, but I feel the second game of the doubleheader might have done it," Martin said. "It was the worst game I ever managed, not from a managing standpoint, but from a viewing standpoint. It was like Class C ball.

"He (Yankee owner George Steinbrenner) didn't see it, but I know it must have upset him. It upset the hell out of me."

A month ago when the team was in Detroit, Martin's job was reportedly in jeopardy. But he survived that scare and says he made no concessions to Steinbrenner or Paul.

"I've never run scared in my life," he said. "I've got a job to do and I'm just gonna go out and do it. Whatever happens happens."



Franklin sets top swim mark

Kris Franklin of the Livermore Aquacowboys qualified for the 400 free at the Senior National AAU swim meet with a 4:26.5 — half a second under the qualifying time at a special meet at West Valley College in Saratoga over the weekend.

The clocking puts Franklin in the top 25 in the event nation-wide.

Four Livermore boys did well at the Ohlone 'A' Meet in Fremont over the weekend.

In the boys 15-18 division, Russ Hastings swam to sixth place in the 100 back in a time of 1:10.7 while Mike Behrin, in the 13-14 grouping, clocked an 'AA' time of 2:36 to take second in the 200 back.

In boys 11-12's, Lex Johnson was sixth in the 100 breast at 1:29.2, good for 'AA' recognition while Kevin Kyle was fifth in the 50 butterfly at 34.3 — also an 'AA' time.

The 'AA's' qualified all three boys for next months Far Western Championships.

Hastings picked up another sixth in the 200 free, in a time of 2:12.5.

Blackout Gave NBC a Lift

NEW YORK (AP) — With the top two shows in the A.C. Nielsen ratings the week of July 10-16, NBC was first place nationwide during prime time. But the standings were affected by New York's blackout, which knocked out ratings for five Wednesday programs, including as "Charlie's Angels."

Figures made available gave NBC's Monday night movie, "Breakout," a top 22.4 rating, representing 15.9 million households.

The last of 60 rated shows was "Nancy Drew," on ABC, which drew 5.2 million.

Averages for the week ending July 17 gave NBC a 13.8 rating, representing 9.8 million homes; CBS, a 13.4, or 9.5 million, and ABC, a 12.8, or 9.2 million.

In order, the top 10 shows were:

"Breakout;" "Stalk the Wild Child," NBC's Thursday movie; 20.4, or 14.5 million households; Miss Universe Pageant, CBS, 19.5, or 13.9 million; "Laverne & Shirley," ABC, 19.1, or 13.6 million; "Sleeper," ABC's Tuesday movie, 18.9, or 13.4 million; "Happy Days," ABC, 18.2, or 12.9 million; "Quincy," NBC, 17.9, or 12.7; "Shields & Yarnell," CBS, 17.8, or 12.7 million; "Jeffersons," CBS, 16.9, or 12 million; "M.A.S.H.," CBS, 16.2, or 11.5 million.

The next 10 shows were:

"60 Minutes," CBS; "McCloud," NBC; "Kojak," CBS; "Maude," CBS; "All's Fair," CBS; "Barney Miller," CBS; "All in the Family," CBS, and "Hawaii Five-0," CBS, tied; "One Day at a Time," CBS, and "Switch," CBS.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm sometimes so overwhelmed by worry and anxiety that I can hardly get my work done. I go about my household tasks determined to think about other things, but I can't control my mind. This makes me angry with myself and that seems to put more strain on me, and my children suffer from my short temper. Does everybody worry and is there any way to handle it? — R.T.

DEAR R.T.: I believe almost everyone worries at some time in life. We usually worry more when our minds are freer to let worry and anxiety take over. When great demands are being put upon us, there's really little time to worry.

In times of emergency or crisis, for example, such as the activity involved in escaping a natural disaster, it's been found there is no time for anxiety. Worry always hits after the action.

Psychiatrist Alan Challman feels that worry, or the habit of worry, begins in the cradle. The infant learns to associate suffering and relief. When we grow up, we learn more rational ways to deal with our wants and problems, but when we can't think of a better way or when the problem seems beyond our control, we worry. Worry, Dr. Challman feels, is a regression, a self - imposed suffering to evoke a rescue operation.

I've found that action helps me overcome worry. When I begin to worry, I usually don't try to push it aside or ignore it. I acknowledge it, give in to it long enough to sit down and make a few notes to myself. I write down the subject of the worry, possible results, and possible actions that could prevent its happening. Usually, this helps. Of course, there are times when we are powerless. Then, there's nothing to do but admit our powerlessness and try as best we can to turn the matter over to powers outside ourselves.

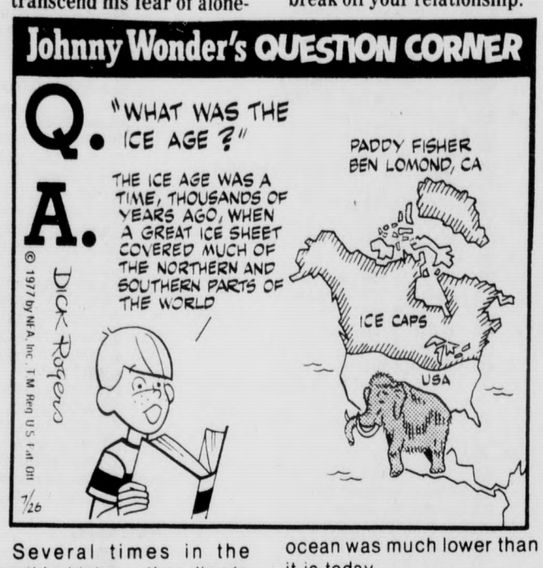
DEAR DR. BRTOHERS: I'm 28 and have been emotionally involved with a Latin American for the past four months. I was brought up in a different culture. I knew it would be difficult to blend some of our views but I never realized what machismo meant until now. He simply can't see that he's bringing centuries of prejudice down on my head. He doesn't see himself as having prejudice against women. How can I get through to him or is it hopeless? I can't marry him only on his terms. — C.J.

DEAR C.J.: This exaggerated masculinity or machismo is a response to a deep sense of fear and inadequacy. According to a Mexican psychoanalyst, Aniceto Aramoni, the man tries to resist his fears, to defy his depression and apathy by going to the opposite extreme. He hopes to transcend his fear of aloneness and weakness by acting bigger, stronger, and braver.

Overcompensating for his acute inner feelings of inadequacy and guilt, some men strut through life seeking challenges to prove their masculinity.

The fact that your friend felt strong enough to risk being attracted and becoming emotionally involved with you indicates that the situation is far from hopeless. Explain that you can't live on his terms if they involve treating you as an object, as an inferior who must serve him. Let him know he doesn't have to prove his masculinity. You may get through to him. If you don't, you may have to break off your relationship.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHAT WAS THE ICE AGE?"
A.
THE ICE AGE WAS A TIME, THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO, WHEN A GREAT ICE SHEET COVERED MUCH OF THE NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN PARTS OF THE WORLD

Several times in the earth's history. the climate has grown cold. Ice and snow didn't melt and run off into the oceans, but piled up into great sheets of ice covering much of the earth.

These times, each lasting thousands of years, were "ice ages."

The last ice age ended only a few thousand years ago. At its peak, ice sheets thousands of feet thick covered most of North America. So much of the world's water was locked up in ice that the level of the ocean was much lower than it is today.

As the ice spread, it pushed as far south as present-days states of Washington, Illinois, Ohio, and New Jersey.

As the forzen mass slowly advanced, it bulldozed hills flat, carved valleys and gouged out lake basins.

At present, the earth is in-between ice ages. Scientists don't know exactly what causes an ice age. But they do know that, perhaps thousands of years from now, another ice age will begin.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor has suggested that I limit desserts and carbohydrates and have some protein mid-morning and mid-afternoon. A blood sugar test two hours after breakfast was 60, normal being 60 to 110.

How many grams of carbohydrates per day should I have to consider that a low-carbohydrate diet? Also, how much protein should I have per day?

Is there any way to detect the difference between a headache caused by hypoglycemia and all the other reasons for having a headache?

DEAR READER — Let me point out at once that the definition of the normal range for blood glucose is wrong.

A large number of normal people have values below 60. In an excellent article in the New England Journal of Medicine (Volume 291, page 905, 1974), doctors found 23 per cent of a normal population had values below 50. Many healthy people with no symptoms had values as low as 35. A similar result was found by Fitzsimons Army Medical Center (Journal of American Medical Assoc. September 22, 1975). This is important because too many people get a diagnosis of hypoglycemia because a low blood glucose level is found on a blood test.

The only way a diagnosis of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) can be justified is by observing both the low blood sugar level and the symptoms occurring together. The symptoms attributed to low blood sugar can be caused by many things and the low blood levels can occur in perfectly normal

Headaches can be caused by a list of things as long as your arm. I would not think it was caused by hypoglycemia unless there were some other symptoms of hypoglycemia at the time of low blood sugar levels. And I would want a level below 50.

And I don't agree with eliminating all your carbohydrates or most of them.

Opening lead — 2♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

This business of not leading fourth best against notrump unless you hold one of the four top honors is not always successful. Today's hand decided an important IMP match. The bidding went the same way at both tables and each West player decided to open a spade.

At table one the lead was the old-fashioned deuce from a four-card suit. Declarer rose with dummy's king and lost the club finesse. West led back a club. Declarer knocked out the ace of diamonds and got another club led back at him.

He could now count on two diamonds, two clubs and one heart and decided the way to get four spade tricks would be to play West for the jack. So he led a spade from his hand, finessed dummy's 10 and had to be content with the unhappy result of down one.

At table two the lead was the new-fangled seven spot. South rose with dummy's king and the play proceeded just about the same way as at table one except that at this table South knew where the jack of spades was. Eventually he played dummy's queen of spades, dropped East's jack and had his nine tricks and a 12 IMP gain.

Ask the Jacobys

A New Hampshire reader wants to know if it is ever proper to lead from a king at trick one.

The answer is that, of course, it is. What would he do with:

♠ K xx ♥ K xx ♦ K xx ♣ K xxx

More seriously, the lead from a king is frequently a very good one.

Lecture on how to preserve at home

LIVERMORE — Fruit leather is a nutritious snack, light enough to pack on backpack trips and easy to make at home, according to Dot Bishop, an environmental chemist at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Bishop will join Mary Dietrick, a longtime area consumerist, and Marge Thompson, a butcher for 33 years, to show how to make fruit leather, beef jerky and other homemade food preservation techniques Wednesday at the Carnegie Building, 3rd and K streets.

"Preserving your Plenty" is the fifth of eight weekly workshops cosponsored by the Valley Ecology Center and the Livermore Area Recreation and Parks District.

Donations of $1.50 per adult and 75 cents per child are asked at the door.

Bishop, Dietrich and Thompson teach a popular two semester adult education course in "Creative Consumerism" at Livermore High School.

"We will demonstrate how to choose and preserve fruits, vegetables and meats," said Dietrich. She will give a list of area farmers' markets and orchards where large quantities of fruits and vegetables are available.

"When you take your produce home, you'll find a wide variety of ripeness — especially with fruit," Bishop said. "For the best nutrition, tast and appearance, I recommend freezing the not-so-ripe fruit, canning the medium ripe fruit and making fruit leather with the very ripe fruit."

Fruit leather is a sheet of dried fruit puree which is torn into bite-sized pieces. To make it, simmer the fruit a little, run through a high-speed blender then pour onto a coated cookie sheet to dry.

Another at-home short cut will be the trio's no-syrup method of canning fruit. Conventional canning methods start by making a batch of syrup, which is added to top off the fruit-filled jars.

"If you run out of syrup halfway through the canning, you have to stop and make more syrup," said Bishop. "Or, you could make too much, which is wasteful."

The creative consumerist way is to add the desired amount of sugar to each jar, then add boiling water to dissolve. After adding the fruit, more boiling water is added to top off the jars — the sugar is already in the jar in the right amount.

Japanese students in Dublin

Twenty-five high school and college-age Japanese will arrive in Dublin Saturday from Tokyo as part of the Homestay program, coordinated in the Valley by Barbara Heimowitz at Dublin High School.

The students will stay with families in Dublin, San Ramon, Pleasanton, Livermore and San Leandro for three weeks and attend English language and culture classes at Dublin High each weekday morning from 8:30 to 12.

The Japanese students and their host families will also take excursions to the Levi Strauss plant and Exploratorium in San Francisco, an Oakland A's baseball game, ride Bay Area Rapid Transit to Cal Berkeley, have an outing to Santa Cruz beach and boardwalk, attend a family picnic, and the annual Sayonara party on Aug. 18.

The students, who are now in San Francisco, will meet their host families for the first time Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Dublin High choral room.

Mrs. Heimowitz, who has coordinated the Homestay program in the Valley the last four years, will teach the English language classes at Dublin High, assisted by Julie Blow.

Host families and Mrs. Heimowitz will meet tonight to work out last minute details.

After their three-week visit here, the students will journey to Los Angeles and Disneyland before returning to Japan.

Discipline for two business

SACRAMENTO — Disciplinary action has been taken against two Livermore businessmen, according to a report from the State of California Department of Consumer Affairs.

Frank Proctor was denied a license by the state board of contractors effective June 12, 1977.

The report stated, "license denial for dishonesty, fraud or deceit; license denial for acts which would constitute grounds to discipline a license."

Wayne Bernard Suhr, field representative, was disciplined by the state structural pest control board.

The report stated Suhr was, "suspended 40 days, stayed for one year, one-year probation, suspension on 30 days effective May, 16, 1977. (failed to file a notice of completion, violation of contract and failed to make a proper inspection.)"

Eleven on Davis list

Eleven Valley residents have been named to the Deans' Honors Lists at the University of California, Davis. The lists are based on this past spring quarter's grades.

The students and their majors are Daniel Moorow, psychology; Roger Wright, rhetoric; Jeffrey Smith, atmospheric science; Marjorie Pearson, exploratory agricultural and environmental science; Pamela Ann Catalano, environmental planning and management; Catherine Barsotti, economics; Jon Connolly, undeclared in the college of letters and sciences; Steven Churchill, engineering, lower division; Mary Tague, undeclared in the college of letters and sciences; all the aforementioned are from Pleasanton.

From San Ramon: Theresa Hall, animal science; Joyce Grossman, political science-public service.

Existing heritage center includes old Murray School

DHPA sees hope for acquisition

DUBLIN — Plans have been put into motion by the Dublin Historical Preservation Association (DHPA) that could help them eventually acquire 7.9 acres on the east side of Donlon Way across from the Heritage Center.

The Heritage Center is on 4.5 acres on the west side of Donlon Way. This Center consists of historical buildings, a pioneer cemetery and Old St. Raymond's Church. Acquisition of the 7.9 acres would enable DHPA to expand the Heritage Center project, according to DHPA Director, Marie Cronin.

This 7.9 parcel caused a recent flap between DHPA, local preservationists and R.T. Nahas Company of Hayward. Nahas acquired an option to the land. He proposed to build a mini-storage facility on the property but backed off when opposition grew. Opponents said the mini-storage facility would be an "eye-sore."

The first step toward DHPA's long-range project to save this acreage from further possible alleged desecration was taken June 16, Cronin said. On that date, DHPA started a 24-page application through the bureaucratic works.

If approved at its final destination of the National Parks Division of the United States Department of the Interior, the Heritage Center will be listed in the National Register for Historical Places and designated as a Historical District. This status would give DHPA better opportunities to receive public and private funding, Cronin explained.

She indicated that with more funding available, DHPA would be able to purchase the 7.9 acres.

"This site we want to purchase has historical significance since it contains the structure that housed the first general store, post office and library."

"Being listed on the National Register and designated as a Historical District means the project has met all criteria," she continued. "People are more apt to give money to projects that have received national recognition."

Cronin said DHPA had already received a reply from the first link in the chain of application filing.

"We received a letter dated June 23 from the Chief Preservation Officer for the State of California in Sacramento. He notified us our application was being reviewed and that he would let us know if any revisions were necessary."

After that review is completed, the State Historical Resources Commission will have their turn, Cronin reported. She said the June 23rd letter stated DHPA would be notified of the time and place of the commission hearing. If approval prevails at this point, the commission will forward the application to Washington D.C. for final evaluation, Cronin declared.

She said DHPA hoped to hear within a year what direction their efforts were taking.

Everyone awaits that state school spending packet

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A legislative committee created to resolve California's school finance problems listed 16 areas of potential disagreement Monday in its $4.9-billion spending bill.

The disputes include how much extra state money should go into public schools over the next five years, how much money should substitute for local taxes and how much should be used to improve education.

But the special committee created last month by the state Senate and Assembly decided after a brief organizing meeting to wait another day before starting negotiations on the complex school finance bill.

California's 1,100 local school districts must adopt their 1977- 78 school year budgets by Aug. 8, and so they need to know by early next week how much extra money the state will provide, school finance committee chairman Leroy Greene said.

Greene, a Democratic assemblyman from Sacramento, suggested possible compromises on several points dividing Senate and Assembly conferees on the schools issue.

But Republican members of the six-man committee requested time to study a lengthy legislative staff analysis, and Greene delayed all debate and committee votes until Tuesday afternoon.

The school finance bill is the second half of a pending legislative package that will decide how to spend much of California's expected $2.75-billion budget surplus.

A separate committee of six legislators resumes hearings Wednesday on a $945-million property tax relief plan following four days of negotiations last week.

The two committees hope to have both bills ready for Senate and Assembly floor votes after the legislature recovenes next week following its summer recess.

The school finance committee was organized to resolve differences between Greene's school finance bill, sponsored by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., and a rival bill by Sen. Albert Rodda, DSacramento.

The Greene bill would cost $4.926 billion over five years and the Rodda bill $3.398 billion.

But because of differences in allocating funds, the Greene bill would allow local school property taxes to continue to increase by an estimated $115 million over the next five years while the Rodda measure would cut local taxes $231 million, meaning schools would get significantly more total spending money under the Greene bill.

Both bills would be financed from state budget surpluses, and both are intended to meet the state Supreme Court's order to eliminate the differences in educational opportunity between rich and poor school districts.

No intent to harm, says defendants

Schoenfeld chuckled slightly and replied, "I am now."

The 26 school children and their driver were ordered off their school bus July 15, 1976, by masked men who herded them into vans and drove them 95 miles north to Livermore.

There they were imprisoned in a buried moving van for 18 hours until they scratched and clawed their way out.

The defense had attempted to keep the mountains of evidence from use in the trial and public scrutiny by challanging a search warrant law enforcement officers obtained after entering the Portola Valley estate of Woods' family.

The warrant was one of 15 issued in four counts to gather more than 4,800 pieces of evidence. Authorities said Frederick Nickerson Woods III, father of one of the defendants, gave verbal permission for two sheriff's deputies to enter the estate. Woods denied on the stand that he had authorized them to enter.

Attorney Herbert Yanowitz had argued that there were "substantial errors" and insufficient cause to justify the July 21, 1976 search.

Most damaging were the ransom note and kidnap plan, part of a package of documents found in Woods' bedroom.

Beetle threat to trees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The tiny Western Pine Beetle, normally a menace only to older trees with hardening of the arteries, now is attacking drought - weakened young timber, say forestry experts.

Ralph Hall, California coordinator of the Council for National Resources, estimates that 750 million to 1 billion board feet of timber — about five per cent of timber stands in California — have been wiped out.

"It's an epidemic situation in the Mother Lode country," starting in Shasta and Lassen counties and running down to Yosemite and south, Hall told a recent conference on forest and rangeland problems.

Chiropractic Health Hints

BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C.
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH — CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

DON'T NEGLECT THE WARNING OF A HEADACHE

Pain is nature's warning that all is not well with you. Therefore if you are subject to headaches, the reasonable thing to do is to try to discover what ailment is causing your head to ache, instead of taking a pain killer and letting the matter go at that. If the cause of your distress can be found and removed, your headaches will disappear.

The causes of chronic headache are many and varied. One of the more frequent causes of headache is po imination. Because some orga not working properly, poisons accu te in the blood and affect the brain cells, causing in most cases a dull headache.

A frequent cause of headache is a digestive disturbance, due to bad food, or disorders of the stomach, liver or bowels.

A constant throbbing ache in the top of the head is often the result of high blood pressure, which in turn is caused by disease of the heart, kidneys, arteries or by nervousness.

A type of headache that seems to be getting more common is due to nerve exhaustion. Overwork, loss of sleep and a fast pace use up nervous energy faster than it can be restored. In this way, nerve exhaustion comes on gradually, and one of its symptoms is headache, usually felt in the back of the head where the skull joins the neck.

Eye strain is another cause of headache. In some cases it is in the forehead, but in others it is in the back of the head where the sight centers in the brain are located.

Sinus trouble can cause a most severe headache, over the eyes, across the front of the face, or even over the entire head.

Of all types of headache, one of the most common is due to nerve pressure at the spine. An ache from this cause may be felt in any part of the head and is sometimes accompanied by a feeling of tightness at the base of the skull.

If you suffer headaches see your chiropractor for a thorough physical check-up. He can provide relief and also correct the cause of your distressing headaches.

For more information on THE WARNING OF A HEADACHE call Dr. R.J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.
